The American Federation of Astrologers

Incorporated on May 4, 1938 and headquartered in Tempe, Arizona, The American Federation of Astrologers encourages and promotes the science and art of western astrology through research, teaching, lecturing and practice. Ernest and Catharine Grant were its founders. The AFA was the first U.S. astrological organization to administer certification examinations for astrologers, a program which it continues to sponsor. It is also a publisher of astrological books and has a world-class library of astrological literature and journals. The AFA has been active on several different levels since its inception, including the hosting of a periodic astrological conferences. ■
